

Do Covid-19 Regulatory Changes Pose an Increased Risk of Fraud and Abuse Liability for Healthcare Providers?

09.17.20

Regulatory developments—such as the Stark Law blanket waivers and the OIG's enforcement deferral for use of the waivers—have helped healthcare providers during the COVID-19 crisis, but healthcare fraud remains a prime target of the DOJ and the OIG (in addition to state regulators). Between October 2018 and September 2019, the DOJ obtained over $3 billion... Continue Reading...
