

The Competency of the Sham Affidavit as Summary Judgment Proof in Texas, 40 St. Mary's Law Journal 206 (Co-Authored with Joseph P. Regan)

01.01.08

The following example presents a surprisingly common scenario encountered in summary judgment practice in Texas and throughout the United States. A plaintiff files suit against a silica producer based upon silicosis. The plaintiff was exposed to the silica over the past forty years and began seeing physicians approximately eight years before filing suit. To read more, click on "Download PDF."
