

Daniel Box

Associate

Practices: Real Estate Development & Investments; Land Use/Entitlements

Industries: Real Estate

Daniel Box is a member of Winstead's Zoning & Land Use and Real Estate Development and Investments Practice Groups. His practice involves representing developers and landowners in zoning and land use matters including, but not limited to, applications for variances, special exception appeals, zoning amendments, and alley vacations, before municipalities and other governmental entities.

Daniel's experience also includes defending clients in building court against alleged code violations. He also advises developers and landowners, with regard to sign regulations, entitlements, building permits, and easements.

Representative Experience

- Rezoning requests, variance, and special use permits
- Signage and alcohol regulations and entitlements
- Alley vacations
- Local government affordable housing requirements

Professional & Community Service

- State Bar of Texas
- Illinois State Bar Association
- Congress for the New Urbanism

Admissions

- Texas, 2021
- Illinois, 2017

Dallas Office

214.745.5247 Direct

214.745.5390 Fax

dbox@winstead.com

Education

Loyola University Chicago School of Law

– J.D., 2017

University of Dallas

– B.A., Politics, with honors, 2012
– cum laude

Languages

Spanish (Fluent)